PROMOTING CLIMATE SMART AGRICULTURE AND
TRADE INITIATIVES FOR SUSTAINABLE ECONOMIC GROWTH

About ASK and the Mombasa International Show

The Agricultural Society of Kenya (ASK) was founded in December 1901 under the name East African Agricultural and Horticultural Society. The central objective was to promote agricultural development based on European settlement. This was the brainchild of John Ainsworth, who was the Sub-Commissioner for Ukambani Province. The first show was held in Nairobi (Jevanjee Gardens) in 1902. The Society provided a platform to showcase best practices in agriculture and livestock management as well as other related sectors with Nairobi as the headquarters. Over the years it has expanded its horizon to sixteen branches in the country.

The shows have since expanded to include not only agricultural sector industries but many other sectors that support or complement agriculture in the nation's economic development.

The Agricultural Society of Kenya Coast Branch that is situated at the Jomo Kenyatta Mkomani Showground hosts the annual Mombasa International Show.
